'OTT format lends itself to a different kind of story-telling'

Chenal, September of Tamil Rockerz, the latest Web series on SonyLiv, marked the OTT foray of AVM Productions, one of Tamil chema's oldest and most-reputed production houses. Founded by legendary producer AV Melyappan In 1946. AVM Productions Productions introduced several Iconic film stars, including Chevalier Sivaji Ganesan, Kamal Haasan and Kannada film Icon S. Rajkumar, among others. Adapting to the changing times and technology to embracing feature films and 1 embracing feature films and TV series, AVM Productions is now geared up to face the OTT revolution under its fourth-generation leaders — Aruna Guhan and Aparna Guhan Shyam. In this exclusive interview with BusinessLine, Aruna Guhan, Partner and Creative revolution under its Director, AVM Productions, shares the reason for the production house's dive into the OTT space, plans for new content and foray into other languages. Excerpts:

What prompted you to foray into the OTT space? Although OTIs have been there since the 2000s, it picked up in Tamil yaround 2018. We felt it would be a slao consuming content that way ourselves.

I think because of the responsibility of seeing AWA through to the next generation and moving forward with technology is always a really big part of that. OTT has its own merits because the format enables you to tell different kinds of stories.

What took this long to launch your first content? We started the conversation in 2018 and then by the time Tamil Rockerz came about it was 2019. Then we had the Covid-19 pandemic.

But, actually, the pandemic really helped the OTT space and it became an advantage for us.

You talked about the

You talked about the advantages of OTT.
What are its demerits?
I wouldn't personally say there are demerits in terms of content. I feel you can reach a larger audience, but at the same time, there is a certain format to a story you would tell in cinema with that time soan.

would tell in cinema with that time span.

And when you read a story, usually you have a very clear idea whether it would work for a series or a 90-minute original or for a film.

How is the feedback for Tamil Rockerz? The feedback has been good. It's also really heartening be-cause, as the fourth-generation, this is kind of a first big step that we have taken, and the support for it has been really great.

AVM has produced several AWA has produced several TV series in the past. How different is a Web series? Ifeel like it's an extension pre-cause any movie being re-leased is anyway going to come into digital. For us, AWA is synonym-ous with a certain quality, and we stuck to that in terms of making the Web series as well.

How different was producing a Web series as opposed to a traditional film?

to a traditional film? I feel you are more organised, especially when you're working with a corporate. Usually, we put out daily expenses in Tally, which still goes on, but at the same time you have that micro break-up on a spreadsheet, where you can always see exactly which head has gone well. I think that that's very helpful because that's also how! work.

Will this strategic move Impact your big film productions? I feel, ideally, it is should be a mix of both. I feel we should have films that come on digital, and then we should have OTT as well.

Again, it's based on the content because we are a very content-focussed brand. We don't have a target of X amount of content in a year. Rather, we are very mindful of what we are putting in the banner on the legacy of my great grandfather's name.

Are you open to

Are you open to producing content in other languages as well? I think it's again story-based. There's so much talent coming out of Kerala and great audience in Telugu as well. Depending on the stories, we are definitely open to explore. AVM has also worked in all the might paragraph. in all the major languages in

CHITRANARAWAN

NEWORTH, Speringer is golden hair are gone – replaced by thinning silver strands, but the devastating charm is in-tact—as David Gower, cricket's most stylish southpaw, takes the stage to talk about the game's evolution into a big branded sport.

The event is the International Advertising Association's Global Summit on Nations as Brands, and Gower lucidly holds forth on Brand Cricket and the shift of power from England, its home, to india. The title of his talk 'From Autograph to Photograph' be Photograph's Autograph to Photograph' says it all.

says it all.

Just as today fans rarely whip out a pen to get signatures choosing a selfie with the star instead, the gentleman's game has moved from the leisurely field to a television-driven billion dollar spectator sport. Gower acknowledged how India drives the game today. There is abso-lutely no denying that if you talk about cricket and if you talk about money, the first place you think about is india, where the entire business of cricket has changed the face of the game, the nature of it, and spread it around the world. The power lies here in India's, he said.

he said.

And undeniably one platform has changed it all. The biggest brand in cricket around the world is spelt with three very big capital letters—IPL," he said emphatically. "The single word I can use to describe IPL is "phenomenal." From a competition people were suspicious about, today it is revered around the world, he said. Gower said the defining year for the shift in the game's power was undoubtedly 1983 - the year India won the Prudential World won the Prudential World Cup.

"On India's magnificent win in 1933, I would like to hold up my hand and say that I feel largely responsible. If you go back to the day in the summer of 1933 when England played India In the serni finals, we were favourites to win the game. I was averaging 70 plus in the tournament but in that game I was caught Kirmani, bowled Amarmath for 17, and from that point India's win in the semi finals was guarateed, points out Gower.

The advent of money Gower said that the timing of his career was "nigh on per-fect" as the ability of cricket players to earn money was starting at that time. Kerry Packer had just happened. "If you were an England cricketer in 1977, you played a five-day game for 200 pounds, in other words English players took on the likes of Dennis Lillee and Jelf Thomson almost for free.

You played for honour, you played for the challenge, you
played for the challenge, you played for all kinds of amateurish reasons. In 1978, the year I made my debut at age 21, the fee had gone up by five times to 1,000 pounds," he recalled.
This was, thanks comfull

This was, thanks to Comhill Insurancesponsoring the English cricket team. This was the first experience we had of branding of the centures old game, he pointed out. On the future of the game, Cower batted for balance. While the shorter formats have brought in spectators, sponsors and money, the five-day game needs to be kept alive. Just as we blend the paper, the pen and the mobile phone, we need to keep all formats of the game intact," he concluded.
