Nitish Kumar, the man of the moment

TENTH TIME CM? His policies for women and marginalised sections proved decisive in his victory

Poornima Joshi
New Delhi

The 'paltu baabu' (man of flip-flops) of Bihar politics has once again trounced his critics and opponents alike. From being mocked for his fading mental health that became a subject of multiple memes throughout the Bihar Assembly election campaign to the undisputed conqueror in this electoral battle, Nitish Kumar is set to be Chief Minister of Bihar for the tenth time.

He emerged from his self-imposed silence when the last of the results were trickling in on Friday to thank the electorate and his allies with characteristic understatement: "With your support, Bihar will grow to be among the most developed States in the country." This was followed by a long statement on his commitment to women's empowerment in the State.

NITISH KUMAR
Political timeline

1974-1977: Part of JP Movement against Emergency

1985: Elected MLA from Harnaut

1989-1990: Elected to Lok Sabha from Barh. MoS in VP Singh Government

1994-96: Breaks from Janata Dal, starts Samata Party with George Fernandes

1998-2004: Minister in Vaypayee government

2000: First term as Bihar CM, fails to prove majority. Resigns within a week

2005: Becomes CM as leader of BJP-JD(U) alliance that defeats Lalu Prasad Yadav

2010: BJP-JD(U) returns to power, becomes CM again

2013: Breaks ties with BJP over Modi's projection as PM

2015: Teams up with Lalu, returns to power as CM

2017: Breaks alliance with Lalu

2020: Partners with BJP and wins again to become CM

2022: Breaks with BJP, joins hands with Lalu, remains CM

2024: Returns to BJP-led NDA, remains CM

2025: With BJP, wins massive mandate

POLICY PAYOFF

While women have rewarded him with enthusiastic support in this election, turning out to vote in massive numbers, Nitish Kumar took a bow to this caste-neutral support that he has single-handedly created through targeted schemes and policy initiatives in the last two decades. He referred to the notorious law and order situation in Bihar before he came to power in 2005 and how badly it impacted women.

"There was a time before 2005 when there were no initiatives for women's empowerment. They could not get out of their homes. It was unsafe for them to venture out after it got dark. The state-supported criminals were so emboldened that parents would worry when their daughters went to schools and colleges... Now we have a situation where women have the means to progress and become self-dependent. We are committed to working towards their empowerment," he said in a long statement on X.

Besides women, who have supported him across caste lines, Nitish has created a unique caste support base which is much bigger than his own caste, the Kurmis, who form just about 2.8 per cent of the population. This was the Most Backward Class (MBCs), who were dominated by the numerically stronger Yadavs. As the Yadavs consolidated around their undisputed leader, Lalu Prasad Yadav, Nitish steadily weaned away the MBCs who increasingly felt unrepresented. Similarly, he worked on Mahadalits and Pasmanda Muslims through targeted welfare schemes.

Coupled with a vastly improved law and order situation, better roads and infrastructure and electricity supply, Nitish Kumar managed to retain the support of the sections that he has studiously cultivated even after two decades of almost uninterrupted rule as Chief Minister.

As a tour around Bihar revealed to this correspondent, there was practically no anti-incumbency against Nitish in the State.

In Pipra Assembly constituency in East Champaran, for instance, people were upset with the sitting MLA Shyam Babu Prasad Yadav, but they still supported Nitish Kumar. "They should have given a ticket to someone else. Our MLA does not help anyone. But we have no complaint against Nitish Kumar," Krishnadev Singh in the main market, Pipra told businessline.

POLITICAL SWINGS

The voters did not have any problem with Nitish shifting political alliances over the years. He broke ties with the BJP in 2013, against Narendra Modi's projection as PM and teamed up with his arch-rival, Lalu Prasad Yadav. They fought the 2015 Assembly Elections together and won handsomely. But he dumped Lalu and partnered with the BJP once again in 2020. Once again, he broke his alliance with the BJP in 2022 and went back to Lalu Yadav's party as an ally. Again in 2024, he was back with the BJP again.

Nitish is back again, even as his mental sharpness fades and his control over the party weakens. The BJP is lying in wait to cannibalise his party. But not just yet. For now, he has handed the ruling alliance a resounding mandate.

PDP makes a comeback with Budgam bypoll win

Gulzar Bhat
Srinagar

The People's Democratic Party (PDP) has returned to prominence by winning the Budgam Assembly seat.

At the same time, the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) held on to the Nagrota seat, adding to its celebrations after the party's victory in the Bihar Assembly polls.

VOTER SHIFT

After facing a drubbing in the 2024 Assembly elections and shrinking to only three seats, PDP candidate Aga Syed Muntazir Mehdi on Friday defeated the ruling National Conference candidate Aga Syed Mehmood Al-Mosavi by a margin of 4,478 votes.

While Mehdi secured 21,576 votes, Mosavi received 17,098 votes. It is the first time in the PDP's electoral history that it has won the Budgam seat.

BJP's Devyani Rana flashes the victory sign after winning in the Nagrota Assembly constituency bypoll

The PDP's win in the high-stakes contest is seen as a setback for the National Conference, with political observers saying the result effects growing voter dissatisfaction with the party's leadership in central Kashmir.

"PDP's win reflects growing disillusionment of voters with the NC and offers a moral boost for the PDP," said Shahnawaz Hussain, a valley-based political analyst.

He, however, added that the strained ties between NC's Lok Sabha member Aga Ruhullah and the party leadership also played a role in the PDP's victory. Ruhullah had distanced himself from the polls during the campaign and did not participate in the electioneering, a move that many believe weakened the NC's prospects in Budgam.

Local voters said the PDP had managed to reconnect with its support base, largely by focusing on development gaps and unfulfilled promises by the NC regarding free 200 units of electricity and 12 free gas cylinders.

The Party workers credited Mehdi's grassroots outreach for the turnaround.

BJP'S NAGROTA WIN

In Jammu, the BJP strengthened its position with Devyani Rana winning the Nagrota Assembly seat by 24,647 votes.

She garnered 42,350 votes, while her nearest rival, Harsh Dev Singh of the J&K National Panthers Party (JKNPP), secured 17,703. The National Conference candidate placed third with 10,872 votes. The twin victories have energised both parties, with leaders calling the results a boost to their workers and organisational strength ahead of future contests
